SEAN F. McAVOY, CLERK

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
EASTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Plaintiff,

vs.

GLEN RAY BRIGGS,

Defendant.

No. 2:07-CR-2063-LRS-1

ORDER DENYING MOTION FOR COMPASSIONATE RELEASE

BEFORE THE COURT is a construed Motion for Compassionate Release pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A) from Glen Ray Briggs. ECF No. 542. The Government was represented by Assistant U.S. Attorney James Goeke. After the motion was filed pro se, attorney Jason Carr was appointed to represent Mr. Briggs. ECF No. 544, 546. The Court, having reviewed the record, the parties' briefing, and the relevant authorities, is fully informed. For the reasons discussed below, Defendant's Motion for Compassionate Release, ECF No. 542, is DENIED.

BACKGROUND

In December 2011, Defendant was sentenced to 225 months imprisonment for various offenses involving drugs, firearms, and escape. See ECF No. 482, 539;

1 see also case nos. 2:07-cr-2065-LRS-1, 2:07-cr-2066-LRS-2, and 2:07-cr-2114-
2 LRS-1. He is incarcerated at FCI La Tuna in Anthony, Texas and his projected 3 release date is August 17, 2023. See <https://www.bop.gov/inmateloc/>.

4 Defendant indicates that he has been rehabilitated and requests a reduction in 5 sentence or that the remainder of his term be converted to supervised release. ECF
6 No. 542 at 1; ECF No. 555 at 14-15, 20. Defendant points out that El Paso, Texas, 7 which is just south of Anthony, Texas where FCI La Tuna is located, is 8 experiencing a surge of positive COVID-19 cases and suggests a similar increase 9 will occur at FCI La Tuna. ECF No. 555 at 10-11.

10 The Government argues that Defendant does not identify any extraordinary
11 and compelling circumstance justifying a reduction in sentence and that 18 U.S.C.
12 § 3553(a) factors do not support Defendant's release. ECF No. 550, 561.

13 DISCUSSION

14 A. Eligibility for Compassionate Release

15 Federal courts have the statutory authority to modify an imposed term of 16 imprisonment for two reasons: compassionate release under 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)
17 or based on a change in the sentencing guidelines under 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2).
18 Until recently, motions for compassionate release could only be brought to the 19 Court by the Director of the Bureau of Prisons. 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A) (2002).
However, after the December 2018 passage of the First Step Act, defendants may

1 now bring their own motions for compassionate release after exhausting
2 administrative remedies within the Bureau of Prisons. 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A) 3 (2018).

4 Defendant submitted exhibits indicating his July 8, 2020 request for a
5 reduction in sentence was denied by the Bureau of Prisons on July 23, 2020. ECF
6 No. 556 at 1-4. The Government acknowledges that exhaustion of remedies is not 7 at issue. ECF Nos. 550 at 2, 561 at 2. Accordingly, the Defendant's motion for 8 compassionate release is properly before the Court.

9 A defendant may be eligible for compassionate release: (1) if the Court finds 10 "extraordinary or compelling reasons" to warrant a sentence reduction; or (2) if the 11 defendant is at least 70 years old, has served at least 30 years in prison pursuant to 12 a sentence imposed for the offense for which the defendant is currently imprisoned,
13 and the defendant is determined not to pose a risk of danger to the community. 18
14 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A). The Court should also consider the factors set forth in 18
15 U.S.C. § 3553, to the extent they are applicable. 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A).

16 Under either eligibility prong, the Court must also find that a sentence 17 reduction is "consistent with applicable policy statements issued by the [United 18 States] Sentencing Commission." 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A). The Sentencing 19 Guidelines instruct that the Court should consider the sentencing factors set forth in 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a) when deciding a motion for compassionate release, and that

1 the Court should not grant a sentence reduction if the defendant poses a risk of 2 danger to the community, as defined in the Bail Reform Act. U.S.S.G. § 1B1.13.

3 Defendant is not eligible for compassionate release under subsection (2) of 4 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A) because he is not 70 years old and has not served 30
5 years in prison. Thus, the question before the Court is whether extraordinary and 6 compelling reasons exist to grant Defendant's request for compassionate release.

7 B. Extraordinary and Compelling Reasons

8 Defendant contends that "extraordinary and compelling reasons" warrant a 9 sentence reduction. ECF No. 555 at 14-18. The First Step Act did not define 10 "extraordinary and compelling reasons" justifying a sentence reduction, but the 11 compassionate release statute directs the Court to consider the Sentencing
12 Commission's policy statements when deciding compassionate release motions.
13 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A).

14 The Sentencing Commission's policy statement on sentence reduction 15 mirrors the language of the compassionate release statute, but it has not yet been 16 updated to reflect the procedural changes implemented by the First Step Act.
17 U.S.S.G. § 1B1.13. Courts across the country have concluded that because the 18 Sentencing Commission has not amended the Guidelines since the enactment of 19 the First Step Act, they are not limited by the categories described in U.S.S.G. § 1B1.13 in determining whether extraordinary and compelling circumstances are

1 presented justifying a reduction of sentence under 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c). See, e.g.,
2 United States v. Brooker, 976 F.3d 228 (2nd Cir. 2020); United States v. Parker, 3 461 F. Supp.3d 966, at 978-79 (C.D. Cal. May 21, 2020) (collecting cases); United
4 States v. Rodriguez, 424 F. Supp. 3d 674, 681 (N.D. Cal. 2019). The Sixth Circuit
5 recently concluded that “[u]ntil the Sentencing Commission updates § 1B1.13 to 6 reflect the First Step Act, district courts have full discretion in the interim to 7 determine whether an ‘extraordinary and compelling’ reason justifies
8 compassionate release when an imprisoned person files a § 3582(c)(1)(A) motion.”
9 United States v. Jones, No. 20-3701, 2020 WL 6817488, at *7 (6th Cir. Nov. 20, 10 2020). Nevertheless, “[w]hile that particular policy statement has not yet been 11 updated to reflect that defendants (and not just the [Bureau of Prisons (“BOP”)])
12 may move for compassionate release, courts have universally turned to U.S.S.G. § 13 1B1.13 to provide guidance on the ‘extraordinary and compelling reasons’ that 14 may warrant a sentence reduction.” United States v. McGraw, No. 2:02-cr-00018-
LJM-CMM, 2019 WL 2059488, at *2 (S.D. Ind. May 9, 2019) (gathering cases).

15 The sentence reduction policy statement outlines four categories of 16 circumstances that may constitute “extraordinary and compelling reasons” for a 17 sentence reduction: (1) the defendant suffers from a medical condition that is 18 terminal or substantially diminishes the defendant’s ability to provide self-care in a 19 correctional environment; (2) the defendant is at least 65 years old, is experiencing

1 a serious deterioration in health due to the aging process, and has served at least 10
2 years or 75% of his or her term of imprisonment; (3) family circumstances
3 involving the death or incapacitation of the caregiver of the defendant's minor
4 child or the incapacitation of the defendant's spouse or registered partner; or (4) 5 other reasons, other than or in combination with the other listed circumstances, that 6 are extraordinary and compelling. U.S.S.G. § 1B1.13, Application Note 1.

7 First, Defendant's petition for release is based upon the assertion that he has 8 been rehabilitated. ECF No. 542. Defendant reports that he has earned his GED
9 and other certificates and that he has had "no major write ups" during his thirteen 10 years in prison. ECF No. 542. Defendant's efforts to better himself while in 11 prison are commendable, but they are not extraordinary or compelling reasons for a 12 sentence reduction. Similarly, while the Court is sympathetic to family concerns 13 raised by Defendant and in letters supporting his release, challenges caused by 14 separation from family are a consequence of incarceration suffered by many 15 inmates. ECF Nos. 542, 555 at 6, 558. The details mentioned do not establish an extraordinary or compelling reason for a change in Defendant's sentence.

16 Second, Defendant contends that extraordinary and compelling reasons exist 17 for release because the Bureau of Prisons is ill-equipped to contain COVID-19 and 18 protect vulnerable inmates. ECF No. 555 at 16. The COVID-19 pandemic is not 19 by itself an extraordinary and compelling reason to grant relief. A general fear of a

1 virus which exists throughout society is not sufficiently extraordinary or 2 compelling under the criteria set forth in the Sentencing Commission's policy
3 statement on compassionate release or on general principles. United States v.
4 Eberhart, No. 13-CR-00313-PJH-1, 2020 WL 1450745, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 25, 5 2020); see also United States v. Raia, 954 F.3d 594, 597 (3d Cir. 2020) (“[T]he 6 mere existence of COVID-19 in society and the possibility that it may spread to a 7 particular prison alone cannot independently justify compassionate release,
8 especially considering BOP's statutory role, and its extensive and professional 9 efforts to curtail the virus's spread.”). Furthermore, Defendant acknowledges that 10 he does not have a medical condition identified by the CDC as causing an 11 increased risk of severe illness from COVID-19. ECF No. 555 at 5; see Center for 12 Disease Control and Prevention, Coronarvirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19), People
13 with Certain Medical Conditions (December 10, 2020).¹

14 At the time of Defendant's reply brief, he noted the Bureau of Prisons
15 reported only one inmate and sixteen staff members with COVID-19 at FCI La

1 Tuna as of October 28, 2020. ECF No. 555 at 6. The Government's response brief
2 notes that as of November 20, 2020, there were 120 inmates and 29 staff with 3 confirmed cases of coronavirus at that facility, ECF No. 561 at 6, which mirrors a 4 surge in coronavirus cases nationally. However, as of December 10, 2020, the 5 Bureau of Prisons reports that 75 inmates and 17 staff have tested positive. See
6 Federal Bureau of Prisons, COVID-19 Cases (December 10, 2020),
7 <https://www.bop.gov/coronavirus/>.

8 A post-briefing filing by defense counsel indicates Defendant reported to his 9 fiancé that he recently tested positive for COVID-19 and believes he may have 10 pneumonia. ECF No. 563 at 2. The Government argues that a COVID-19
11 diagnosis is not an extraordinary and compelling reason for release and that such a 12 diagnosis in fact weighs against release. ECF No. 564. As noted by the 13 Government, Defendant's early release would involve travel to reach his proposed 14 residence, but the CDC indicates travel increases the risk of spreading COVID-19
15 and advises against travel for those who test positive for the virus. ECF No. 564;

19 covid19.html. The CDC recommends that those who test positive for COVID-19 stay home, quarantine, and monitor symptoms. See Center for Disease Control and

3 sick/steps-when-sick.html.

4 The Court is sympathetic to Defendant's reported illness and the concerns
5 that a positive test for coronavirus elicits. It is noted that the most recent medical 6 records filed are dated August 2020. ECF No. 556 (sealed). The Notice of Recent 7 Developments filed by defense counsel is a third-hand account of Defendant's
8 unverified medical status and the treatment conditions at FCI La Tuna. ECF No.
9 563. While there is an increased infection rate at FCI La Tuna since Defendant's
10 briefing, it is noted that as of this writing, 420 inmates and 40 staff have recovered
11 from COVID-19 and only one inmate has died. See Federal Bureau of Prisons, 12 COVID-19 Cases (December 10, 2020), <https://www.bop.gov/coronavirus/>.

13 Without any medical risk factors for complications, Defendant has not shown that 14 having contracted COVID-19 is itself an extraordinary and compelling basis for 15 release or otherwise modifying Defendant's sentence.

16 C. 18 U.S.C. § 3553 Factors and Danger to Community

17 Under 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A) and the Sentencing Commission policy
18 statement, the Court should consider the sentencing factors set forth in 18 U.S.C. § 19 3553(a) when deciding a motion for compassionate release. Additionally, the

1 Court should not grant a sentence reduction if the defendant poses a risk of danger
2 to the community, as defined in the Bail Reform Act. U.S.S.G. § 1B1.13.

3 Even if Defendant had shown that extraordinary and compelling reasons
4 exist to warrant a reduction in sentence, the Court does not find that the § 3553(a)
5 factors support a reduction in sentence. At the time of the original sentencing, the 6 Court fully considered those factors and imposed a sentence that was sufficient but 7 not greater than necessary to comply with and fulfill the goals of sentencing.²

8 While Defendant has served a significant amount of time in prison and has taken 9 advantage of opportunities to improve himself while incarcerated, the Court also 10 notes that Defendant's convictions involved multiple serious offenses. The 11 sentence imposed by the Court was "sufficient, but not greater than necessary," to 12 comply with the purposes of § 3553(a), including to reflect the seriousness of the 13 offense, to promote respect for the law, to provide just punishment for the offense,
14 and to afford adequate deterrence to this criminal conduct. The Court has again 15 fully considered the § 3553 factors and finds the sentence imposed remains 16 sufficient but not greater than necessary to comply with the purposes of sentencing.

17
18 ² At sentencing, the court imposed a term of imprisonment that was significantly 19 below the term requested by the Government.

1 The Court need not determine whether Defendant poses a danger to any 2 person or the community because there are no extraordinary or compelling reasons
3 warranting a reduction or modification of his sentence.

4 CONCLUSION

5 The Court concludes that that extraordinary and compelling reasons
6 warranting a reduction do not exist and therefore declines to exercise its discretion
7 to reduce or modify Defendant's sentence.

8 Accordingly, Defendant's Motion for Compassionate Release, ECF No.
9 542, is DENIED.

10 IT IS SO ORDERED. The District Court Clerk is directed to enter this 11 Order and provide copies to the U.S. Attorney and counsel.
